SAY TWO CONFESS

Trouble Occurs When Officers Attempt to Raid Still In Parish

Franklinton, La., March 7 .- Covered by the carcass of a dead cow, the bodies of two deputy sheriffs of 25, Washington Parish, have been found in a swamp, buried in mud, it was announced here today by the Sheriff

The bodies, he said, were found near the site of an illicit still, which the two officers had gone to destroy. The sheriff asserted he had confessions from two of twelve men arrest-

The two murdered men were Wes. ley Crane and Wiley Pierce

The bodies were discovered after hours of search by a thousand residents of the parish. Hope of finding the men dead or alive had been had been sent to raid the still failed to return. Twelve men living near the scene of the crime were soon rounded up. They are being held in jail.

Suspicion pointed towards a murder after a desperate battle when a woman, who lives near the swamp said she had heard shots on Sunday, the day the raid was to have been made. The still which previously had not been located by the sheriff's forces, was found by the searching party. The undergrowth near it was trampled and the ground torn up, indicating a struggle.

Then riderless horses which had carried the men into the swamp were found. Work of breaking up still is Find no Trace of Physician continuing. The men under arrest are being held under close guard. Lynching is feared.

PRAISE FROM UNLOOKED FOR SOURCE.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has been regarded all over the country as one of the strongest democratic papers in the nation. This being so, it is certainly a wonderful thing to find in it an editorial giving unstinted praise to a Republican administration, but this is just what we find in Monday's issue, to the extent of almost a column. We give below the opening and closing paragraphs of this remarkable article, with the statement that between these the editor summarizes with commendation all the principal events that have characterized President Hadring's two years of administration:

"The Sixty-seventh Congress has passed into history. The record of the Harding Administration, at the mid-period of the President's incumbency in office, very justly may be styled one of imposing achievements.

"When considered independently of partisan bias, and as unaffected by influences which find their inception and growth within the atmosphere of special interests, whether of capital, labor or international relations, the fair and candid conclusion would seem to be that the affairs of the Government have been administered in a manner that should command the confidence and respect of the American public as well as that of the entire world.

"The President enters upon the second half of his term with much of prestige and practical accomplishment to his credit. It is a good omen that, to this date, his Administration has stood resolutely against any association with Europe in harmony with the League of Nations, but in his recent proposal for the establishment of an international World Court, he published his willingness, and that of his Administration, to go as far as possible to join with the nations of the world in establishing for a universal guidance a tribunal before which the principles of justice and equity never may suffer avoidance, abatement or defeat."

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Again the eyes of the world are riveted upon Constantinople. The city located on the Golden Horn, near the straits of the Dardanelles, has at last come out of the darkness of Islam to stand in the light of Christian interest.

The great question of men who study international affairs is now being asked, What will become of this mighty city? Built by a Christian emperor in the twilight years of the Roman empire, it came into matchless splendor, attracting the luxury and wealth of the world. It claimed the scepter of universal rule and challenged all those who sought to wage competition with its imperial claims.

Then came the Turk, who, driving his cohorts from the Far East, reduced its walls; drove out its rulers; made subject its people and took over its wealth; displacing the cross and exalting the crescent.

From that day to this Constantinople has been a problem. tion because if they don't there is so pulled over the ears to hide hollow Having the most wonderful location in the world, it became a closed treasure house that no man could enter save by permission is most important. of those dark sons of the desert who have come up to marvelous do is to stop worrying about them. Russia has sought to possess this city because it controls the southwestern outlet of the empire. There has been a tremendous price paid for this policy. During the nineteenth century three wars were directly caused by entanglements with the government of that city, while the story of the massacres of Christian peoples by the Turks is the bloodiest that has ever shamed the annals of mankind. These have been committed without conscience or the least degree of condemnation. Those perpetrating them have appeared among the leaders and councellors of the allies within a fortnight, or even while they were going on, without the least manifestation of a sense of crime, and without the allies in the least calling them to answer for their wicked deeds.

The World War seemed to have solved the problem of the Turk in Europe. For a time it appeared as though he had been checked and excluded, and that the empire which he had built through 1,500 years of history was a thing of the past. He had been "the sick man of Europe." Suddenly, however, he comes back to power, claiming his own and demanding his rights with a sternness that shook the powers that thought they had disposed of him. He is like Banquo's ghost and will not down.

CONQUERING DEATH.

The figures of last year's death rate in the United States brighten a somewhat gloomy world. Only 11.6 people died out of every 1,000. The year before, which was considered a good, healthful year, the death rate was 13.1 per 1,000. In 1910 it was 15 per 1,000 and in 1900 it was 17.6.

These few figures alone tell a story of progress in health such as perhaps no nation ever made before.

Particularly remarkable is the record of New York City. That seething community, with all its handicaps of untoward living are palid and unnoticeable. You can Loan Company, 22 West Gay arms with black, and wore black in conditions and crowding aliens, beat the national record, with make the lashes longer and thicker only 11.2 death per 1,000. How is it in your own case? Have you counted restless night hours after the evening cup of coffee?

Treat your health sensibly that you may meet your task capably.

Don't try to draw strength from overdriven nerves. That way lies weakness. Don't increase over-work by using stimulants. You are merely postponing and increasing the penalties.

BAD WEATHER HAS LITTLE EFFECT ON CHURCH SERVICES

March winds, driving snows and rains had little effect upon the Triangle Revival services Tuesday at the First Reformed Church as far as attendance and enthusiasm are concern-

The sermon by the Rev. Joseph Flacks, Jewish Evangelist, was based on Second Chronicles, with the theme, "God's Plan for the Revival," God's plan has never failed when faithfully followed, according to the Rev. Mr. Flacks, and any other sort is worthless. "Israel had backslidden and this was God's plan for calling them back. If Xenia is really seeking a revival after the Divine Plan, here is the blue print to be followed."

The various persons or parties con cerned in the revival, according to the evangelst are "First, God's Holy Spirit; second, the preacher, God's priest or prophet; third, Christian people, spirit-filled, ready and willing to count all else as nothing."

"Do the spiritual conditions Xenia, and Xenia churches call for such a revival,' he asked. "This old time revival meant the cleansing of the people in heart and life, and so it must be always if like results are to follow. Everything that takes one's time and thought and strength from God and righteousness is to be taken away, while Christ is to be all and in

"Broken covenants are to be restored; broken consecrations renewed, broken down altars rebuilt, and the willing sacrifice of the true willing spirit filled believer to be ever ready to do God's will and listen for his voice,' said the speaker.

Thus Dr. Carrel, to maintain flesh tissues alive independently was obliged to constantly inject fresh blood. It was this fact which influenced my researches."

MRS. E. C. LISLE, COLUMBUS. Yaeger Street Woman Overcomes Severe Case of Stomach Trouble, No Longer Has to Diet, She Says.

Mrs. E. C. Lisle, who lives at 1270 Yaeger street, Columbus, is another convert to the Ka-di-ok treatment, which has helped hundreds of persons in this city, many of whom had suffered for years. She says: "I have been bothered with stomach trouble for years and have had to diet myself all the time or pay the penalty of having distressing pains and indi-gestion after eating; I have also been subject to severe pains in my back and was very nervous and fidgety. I have taken several bottles of Ka-diok this year and feel like a new wo-man. I have had stomach trouble so long that I know when an attack is coming on. When I notice any indi-cation of trouble now I immediately take a dose of Ka-di-ok and, so far, it has never failed to correct the trouble. I have stopped dieting any more and eat anything that tastes good to me. I never dared do this before. I would not be without a bottle of Ka-di-ok in the house for anything; it is the only remedy that has brought me relief."

GIVES ACCOUNT OF

An interesting story concerning the new university at Asheville, N. C., recently founded by Dr. George A. Hubbell, a former Greene County man and one time professor at Antioch College, appeared in a recent issue of the Knoxville Sentinel.

The story was accompanied by a picture of Dr. Hubbel, who for some years past has been president of Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee, bringing that school up to such a high standard that today it ranks among the best schools in the south.

The Sentinel says in part: months ago, Dr. Hubbell came to Asheville to establish a university in the "Land of the Sky.' This city offers a wonderful location for a university. It is possible to continue studies all the year without the sense of weariness which would come in a climate less bracing, pleasing and invigorating. In the heart of the mountains one turns instinctively from the petty and common place to realization of great dreams and incorporation of great ideals. Amid these majestic hills, the landscape beautifed by sturdy trees and sparkling streams-amid such surroundings noble ambitions, high aspirations and the purpose of a worthy spirit seeks and finds fruition in such attainments and such life as invites one God."

The names of the faculty of the summer term are also given, and among these is that of Miss Letitia Dillencourt, Greene County educator, listed as follows: "Letiltia Dillencourt, A. B., Antioch (also studied at Denison U. and University of Chicago) Dean of Women and instructor of English. Miss Dillencourt is an experienced educator ,at present teacher of English and Latin, Beaver High School, Alpha, Ohio."

The summer term at Asheville University will open June 12.

SAY TWO CONFESS

Trouble Occurs When Officers Attempt to Raid Still In Parish

Franklinton, La., March 7 .- Covered by the carcass of a dead cow, the bodies of two deputy sheriffs of Washington Parish, have been found in a swamp, buried in mud, it was announced here today by the Sheriff

The bodies, he said, were found near the site of an illicit still, which the two officers had gone to destroy. The sheriff asserted he had confessions from two of twelve men arrest-

The two murdered men were Wesley Crane and Wiley Pierce

The bodies were discovered after dents of the parish. Hope of finding the men dead or alive had been abandoned, when the discovery was made. The search started early yesterday when the two deputies who had been sent to raid the still failed to return. Twelve men living near the scene of the crime were soon rounded up. They are being held in jail.

Suspicion pointed towards a murder after a desperate battle when a woman, who lives near the swamp said she had heard shots on Sunday, the day the raid was to have been made. The still which previously had not been located by the sheriff's forces, was found by the searching party. The undergrowth near it was trampled and the ground torn up, indicating a struggle.

Then riderless horses which had found. Work of breaking up still is Find no Trace of Physician carried the men into the swamp were continuing. The men under arrest are being held under close guard. Lynching is feared.

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, the Ford car were smashed and the liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorder often come from sluggish kidneys.

PRAISE FROM UNLOOKED FOR SOURCE.

The Cincinnati Enquirer has been regarded all over the country as one of the strongest democratic papers in the nation. This being so, it is certainly a wonderful thing to find in it an editorial giving unstinted praise to a Republican administration, but this is just what we find in Monday's issue, to the extent of almost a column. We give below the opening and closing paragraphs of this remarkable article, with the statement that between these the editor summarizes with commendation all the principal events that have characterized President Hadring's two years of administration:

"The Sixty-seventh Congress has passed into history. The record of the Harding Administration, at the mid-period of the President's incumbency in office, very justly may be styled one of imposing achievements.

"When considered independently of partisan bias, and as unaffected by influences which find their inception and growth within the atmosphere of special interests, whether of capital, labor or international relations, the fair and candid conclusion would seem to be that the affairs of the Government have been administered in a manner that should command the confidence and respect of the American public as well as that of the entire world.

"The President enters upon the second half of his term with much of prestige and practical accomplishment to his credit. It is a good omen that, to this date, his Administration has stood resolutely against any association with Europe in harmony with the League of Nations, but in his recent proposal for the establishment of an international World Court, he published his willingness, and that of his Administration, to go as far as possible to join with the nations of the world in establishing for a universal guidance a tribunal before which the principles of justice and equity never may suffer avoidance, abatement or defeat."

CONSTANTINOPLE.

Again the eyes of the world are riveted upon Constantinople. The city located on the Golden Horn, near the straits of the Dardanelles, has at last come out of the darkness of Islam to stand in the light of Christian interest.

The great question of men who study international affairs is now being asked, What will become of this mighty city? Built by a Christian emperor in the twilight years of the Roman empire, It came into matchless splendor, attracting the luxury and wealth of the world. It claimed the scepter of universal rule and challenged all those who sought to wage competition with its imperial claims.

Then came the Turk, who, driving his cohorts from the Far East, reduced its walls; drove out its rulers; made subject its people and took over its wealth; displacing the cross and exalting the crescent.

From that day to this Constantinople has been a problem. tion because if they don't there is so pulled over the ears to hide hollow Having the most wonderful location in the world, it became a closed treasure house that no man could enter save by permission is most important. of those dark sons of the desert who have come up to marvelous do is to stop worrying about them. Russia has sought to possess this city because it controls the southwestern outlet of the empire. There has been a tremendous price paid for this policy. During the nineteenth century three wars were directly caused by entanglements with the government of that city, while the story of the massacres of Christian peoples by the Turks is the bloodiest that has ever shamed the annals of mankind. These have been committed without conscience or the least degree of condemnation. Those perpetrating them have appeared among the leaders and councellors of the allies within a fortnight, or even while they were going on, without the least manifestation of a sense of crime, and without the allies in the least calling them to answer for their wicked deeds.

The World War seemed to have solved the problem of the Turk in Europe. For a time it appeared as though he had been checked and excluded, and that the empire which he had built through 1,500 years of history was a thing of the past. He had been "the sick man of Europe. Suddenly, however, he comes back to power, claiming his own and demanding his rights with a sternness that shook the powers that thought they had disposed of him. He is like Banquo's ghost and will not down.

CONQUERING DEATH.

The figures of last year's death rate in the United States brighten a somewhat gloomy world. Only 11.6 people died out of every 1,000. The year before, which was considered a good, healthful year, the death rate was 13.1 per 1,000. In 1910 it was 15 per 1,000 and in 1900 it was 17.6.

These few figures alone tell a story of progress in health such as perhaps no nation ever made before.

Particularly remarkable is the record of New York City. That seething community, with all its handicaps of untoward living are palid and unnoticeable. You can conditions and crowding aliens, beat the national record, with make the lashes longer and thicker only 11.2 death per 1,000. ## BAD WEATHER HAS LITTLE EFFECT ON CHURCH SERVICES

March winds, driving snows and rains had little effect upon the Triangle Revival services Tuesday at the First Reformed Church as far as attendance and enthusiasm are concern-

The sermon by the Rev. Joseph Flacks, Jewish Evangelist, was based on Second Chronicles, with the theme, "God's Plan for the Revival," God's plan has never failed when faithfully followed, according to the Rev. Mr. Flacks, and any other sort is worthless, "Israel had backslidden and this was God's plan for calling them back. If Xenia is really seeking a revival after the Divine Plan, here is the blue print to be followed."

The various persons or parties con cerned in the revival, according to the evangelst are "First, God's Holy Spirit; second, the preacher, God's priest or prophet; third, Christian people, spirit-filled, ready and willing to count all else as nothing."

"Do the spiritual conditions Xenia, and Xenia churches call for such a revival,' he asked. "This old time revival meant the cleansing of the people in heart and life, and so it must be always if like results are to follow. Rachford and the two women passengers are now patients at Mt. Sterling Hospital, where the former is recovering from the effects of swalloying a quantity of muddy water. He was not taken to the hospital until Monday evening.

Rachford was driving the two passengers from Washington to Columbus when a Ford automobile without lights approacheh his machine, a Nash, on the same side of the road. In order to avoid a collission the bus driver ran his machine to the side of the road, where it slipped off the pavement and turned over in a deep mill race.

As the water gradually crept into the antomobile Rachford held both women with their heads above water and kicked a way out of the machine. Before he had effected an escape the water was around his neck and both women passengers had fainted. A passing motorist took the party to Mt. Sterling, near where the accident new university at Asheville, N. C., reently founded by Dr. George A. Hubbell, a former Greene County man and one time professor at Antioch College, appeared in a recent issue of the Knoxville Sentinel.

The story was accompanied by a picture of Dr. Hubbel, who for some years past has been president of Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee, bringing that school up to such a high standard that today it ranks among the best schools in the south

The Sentinel says in part: "Six months ago, Dr. Hubbell came to Asheville to establish a university in the "Land of the Sky.' This city effers a wonderful location for a university. It is possible to continue studies all the year without the sense of weariness which would come in a climate less bracing, pleasing and invigorating. In the heart of the mountains one turns instinctively from the petty and common place to realization of great dreams and incorporation of great ideals. Amid these majestic hills, the landscape beautifed by sturdy trees and sparkling streams-amid such surroundings noble ambitions, high aspirations and the purpose of a worthy spirit seeks and finds fruition in such attainments and such life as invites one God."

The names of the faculty of the summer term are also given, and among these is that of Miss Letitia Dillencourt, Greene County educator, listed as follows: "Letiltia Dillencourt, A. B., Antioch (also studied at Denison U. and University of Chicago) Dean of Women and instructor of English. Miss Dillencourt is an experienced educator ,at present teacher of English and Latin, Beaver High School, Alpha, Ohio."

The summer term at Asheville University will open June 12.
